Dear US and/or Canadian citizens bound for Europe,

Tourists from North America have always been drawn together by the sound of their non-British accents. For decades, the Standard Greeting among these travelers was, "Where are you from?" or "Where ya from?" or some variation thereof.

As of [REDACTED], the new Standard Greeting is "So, what about this election, huh?" Please use this Greeting when encountering any person with a non-British accents in Foreign Countries.

That is all.

Sincerely,

President
